Poison lurks in every pint of the bootlegger's merchandise. To buy it at an extravagant price is to be uncoined; to drink it is to risk death or blindness, for its toxic vice paralyzes the optic nerve sometimes permanently. All drunks who "see double" are experiencing partial paralysis of the optic nerve. Complete paralysis means complete blindness. Is the nasty stuff worth the price?

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fields entertained at dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Otis W. Danner on Monday. Besides the young couple the invited guests included Lewis E. Harvie and Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Prisoners Escape Jail

Sunday in the small hours of the night seven prisoners confined in the county jail made good their escape by saving two bars from a window and dropping to the pavement below by sheets tied together. Those escaping were Curtis Jent, charged with murder; Newt Lindsay, same; John Combs, housebreaking; Willie Hammons, same; Harvey Thomas, horse stealing; B. Hays, grand larceny; Lonnie McClain, whiskey. Apparently some time Sunday several small black-diamond saws found their way into the jail and with these it was an easy matter to cut the bars. A few small pieces of file were later found hidden about the jail by Jailer Reynolds. On Tuesday Willie Hammons was recaptured at Uz by Deputy Sheriff Will Combs and brought back to jail. The others are still at large. A few days before Frank Sain and another prisoner were transferred to Hazard for safe keeping. Deputy Combs also arrested Mose Collins, son of the late preacher Wes Combs, charged with shooting a man in Perry county, and will return him to the Hazard authorities.

Some General News

Fruit prospects in the state at the present time indicate that Kentucky will have a fair apple crop and that the peach crop will be above normal. Prospects were never better for a full crop of small fruits. The strawberry yield was about the best ever known in the state. A hot showery June, the very thing for full crops and the making of gardens and farm products is predicted altho the weather conditions for May were not so favorable on account of beating rains.

Seven prisoners in the Manchester jail assaulted the deputy in charge of them and made good their escape. They are now out in the wild hiding and officers on the search. Some bad men from Barco are alleged to be in the bunch.

Monday morning in Federal Court at Lexington, of the hundreds who are to face charges are a number of Dry Agents from the mountains on alleged murder charges. However it is said these charges may be dismissed before going to trial. Persons charged with violations of the dry laws from every section of the country are on hand.

Another big wage reduction for railway employees is expected to be announced by the Railroad Labor Board effective July 1st. It is said the additional reduction will make a total of approximately $150,000,000, from the annual payrolls. The bulk of those whose wages are to be cut are Railway Mail Clerks numbering about 200,000, also 5000 train dispatchers and about 125,000 unskilled laborers. The cut will be about an average of five cents per hour.

A violent storm followed by shifting winds that blew with velocity visited the eastern coast of the United States, around New York and tore up and destroyed things generally; more than fifty lives are reported to have been lost and hundreds injured. The damage to property is immense.

Why Are Fathers?

Why are fathers anyhow? All mine does is to raise a row. With Ma an' me, an' chew an' spit. He doesn't ever work a bit. An' Ma she washes by the pound, An' all Pa does is set around, An' chew tobacco that she buys. I wish I was about his size, I'd take him out an' start a fight; I'd make him treat my mother right; Make him work by honest sweat An' let my mother set an' set In that arm chair he's worn clean thru; I'd let him know I meant it, too. But what's the use o' dreamin' dreams, An' what's the use o' schemin' schemes? Cause fathers may be necessary; But when I get big an' marry; I hope I'll be a better one Than Pa is. Hope I'll have a Better son than I am, but couldn't Have a better wife Than mother is, to save my life! J. M. D.

THE MODERN GIRL

Being the Graduation Address of
MISS REBA FISHER
Evening of May 19, 1922

THE indoor sport, which is so very popular at present—knocking the modern girl—is an ungrateful topic upon which to dwell. The subject is inexhaustible and most discussions leave the disputants in control of precisely those prejudices or predictions with which they began. Yet there are many indulging in this sport and they say to each other, "Why can't the modern girls be like the girls in our grandmother's days?" We most surely can be like them, and because styles and customs have changed there is no reason to think we are not like them, and that there aren't any girls as good and modest as our grandmothers were. Naturally every one desires a change of style as they do a change of food, and no one who has looked over the fashion plates of the costumes of the seventies will be surprised to learn of the champions that the modern girl has won.

For centuries girls have been called incomprehensible. For centuries that ended it. Only in these recent times has someone happened to think that girls have been difficult to understand perhaps because since time began they have been judged by men's minds, tested by men's needs as a part of man's world, and for facts one should look from within, seeing the unfinished woman inheriting thru generations of women who have been mothers an intense pre-occupation with human needs.

Of course there are exceptions. For instance, the modern showy girl who likes to show her skill in dancing, dressing and other freaks. But were there not girls of this kind in our grandmothers' time? Those qualities that girls possess today are surely an inheritance from their ancestors. However, there are modern girls of today who are nice quiet domestic girls for wives, serious minded and refined, today same as there were yesterday, and so in turn it is probable that the young men are the ones that have so changed. Men exchange confidences in regard to the women they want for their wives. They say they do not want the kind who marry with one eye on the divorce court and the other on the altar. Nor do they want the jazzy, painted, short-skirted girls for wives. There are girls to suit every taste, if they just knew where to look for them. Common sense tells a man that the type of girl who makes a good wife is the quiet, practical, domestic girl, the one who reads serious books and goes to symphony concerts. But the one he likes to go about with and to be seen out with is the girl who knows the latest jazz, who is the best dancer; who looks like a daily hint from Paris, and one who keeps a man on his tiptoes trying to keep up with her. Conscience whispers to him not to marry the jazz girl, but she has spoiled his taste and he does not seem to care for the ideal girl.

There are hundreds of girls today who are modest, refined, who read and think and have high ideals, who have been trained by their mothers in all the arts of domesticity and who would make model wives, but because they are not of the jazzy kind they are not showy enough for the modern man and so are not taken out to places of amusement. They do not carry on conversations that men seem to crave. Girls know and realize that it is fatal for it to become known that they are serious minded or intelligent, and so they pretend to be a lot more frivolous and wild and silly than they really are. In fact, there are few girls who are as silly and as big fools as they act. There are girls who would act natural if men would let them, but some men won't let them. The only girls these men are interested in are the wild ones. The girl who stays at home, sits by the fireside reading and sewing, hasn't the least chance to show her accomplishments and attractions; she has to go out and brace things up a little and then is knocked for wearing any other kind of dress except a bungalow apron and sunbonnet. Whatever may be said about the dress of the girls of today, the dress is far more sensible and healthful than the superfluities which her grandmothers carried about at the risk of health thru germs swept up in the streets, thru lack of breath enough for any considerable exertions, and thru strains upon the waist by the weight of clothing suspended from it.

Then again, some men think they can find any kind of girl they wish in the cabarets, at jazz parties and such places, and there he looks for her, but if he would look far enough he would find her in her own home. Because the modern girl is not so shy while in the presence of men and boys is no indication that she is not modern and refined. She is sent to school with other girls where boys are allowed to go and so is raised mostly among them. As to the modern girl in the intelligent line, she is by far the most intelligent of any that have ever existed. Is she not capable of earning her own living and in many cases supporting a family? Does she not also help the country in its commercial activities? The courage and ability she displayed in the great world war, the sacrifices she made should be considered sufficient to make her truly an ideal girl. She pushed to the front as far as she was allowed to go to aid the sufferings of humanity. Practically the whole country and its governmental affairs were left to the care of the women and girls. Since the right of the vote is thrown upon her she tries to do her duty to her country by holding various offices of the government, and by helping to carry on the industries in the country.

Anhow, the modern girl is all that the world has, and it behooves it to make the most and best of it.

Letcher Boys Graduate

Danville, Ky. June 12 (Special) Fred W. and Lawrence Caudill, sons of W. J. Caudill, Jr., of Blackey, are members of the graduating class of Centre College, receiving their diplomas on June 14. They are looked upon as two of the best of the class of twenty-nine, and the most promising of the many mountain boys who have attended this College, attaining even more than their share of the honors while here. Both have been members of the famous Centre football team, besides gaining other honors along the lines of college activities. A member of the faculty said: "We could not ask for a better type of college man than the mountain boys and we are always looking out for more of them of the type of the Caudill boys." The class of 1922, with two exceptions, is the largest in the 103 years history of the College. Lawrence Caudill acted as class poet at the Class Day exercises during commencement week.

EDITORIAL

OUR FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

This year, August 29 to be exact, the Eagle will round out its fifteenth year. Looking back we can scarcely realize that this is true. In this time wonders have been wrought in this county. Then Stonega and Norton were our nearest railroad points; then the L. & E. was dragging up the Northfork as far as Jackson, and Hazard, like Whitesburg, had no hopes for the future. Then our big coal fields were asleep, and Jenkins, Fleming and McRoberts had not been thought of. Then every pound of goods sold in this country came across the mountains along muddy and rough roads. How it was accomplished is to most people a mystery. But those were peculiarly happy days. When the Eagle was started it had no idea of living till the change came but it knew and told its readers great days were just ahead. It advised its boy and girl readers to get ready for its advent. Some few caught the spirit and waded into the struggle and are now popular and progressive citizens. But the greater day is yet to come. Greater progress and greater changes are just ahead and the demand for preparation is just as urgent and important.

But, getting back to a reminiscence of the Eagle's fifteen years of existence. It started publication with about 200 trial names on its list. These soon increased to 300 and in the first year this number was doubled. When it passed its fourth birthday in 1911 it had over 1,500 pleased subscribers. Sometimes it was in clover, sometimes it could scarcely get bread to satisfy its hunger. It knew it had a mission in the world and it has hammered away on that mission day in and day out until now. That mission was to do good, to shape the moral and intellectual minds of its younger readers, to sow seeds that would bring forth copious crops. Think of the manual labor it has performed and the weeks it has been sent out on its mission. Seven hundred and eighty weeks thru hot and cold. It has used over 100,000 pounds of of print paper alone; it has done $100,000 worth of printing, $50,000 worth of advertising and earned a million dollars. It has printed death notices, marriage and birth notices, speaking well of everyone, deserving or undeserving, has been "cussed" goodness knows how many times and has never purposely printed a falsehood. The future of the old bird is as bright as could be expected and right on it will fly extending a happy invitation to all to get on board and travel with it. We promise to treat everybody alike whether they travel with us or not.

We have always noticed that the best of business men and the best businesses never fail to get more or less criticisms and cusses but we have likewise noticed that the cusses and criticisms merely stir to stronger efforts and onward they go building more and more business and reaching higher on the ladder of success.

RHEUMATISM SO BAD SHE HAD TO QUIT HER WORK

Petersburg Resident Also Says She Suffered Terribly From Disordered Stomach But Tanlac Completely Overcome all Her Troubles

"Tanlac has been such a blessing to me I can't help singing its praises," said Mrs. T. J. Archer, highly esteemed resident of 1147 Shepherd St., Petersburg, Va. "I had indigestion so bad I couldn't eat a thing without being in misery for hours, and the pain around my heart caused by the gas seemed all I could stand. I constantly had headaches and awful spells of dizziness. Then to make matters worse rheumatism in my arms, shoulders and knees almost drove me to distraction, and for three months I couldn't do a stroke of work. 'I had just about decided it was no use to take any more medicine when my husband brought me a bottle of Tanlac. Now I never have a touch of indigestion. Headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past, and rheumatism has left me entirely. I never have known a medicine to equal Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

The charges of the Prohibition Agents, answering indictments in Federal Court at Lexington, were dismissed by Judge Cochran

One of the favorite sayings of the martyred President, William McKinley, was: "He who has a thousand friends has not one to spare; but he who has an enemy finds him everywhere." The doggerel is a true one. He who would have friends must not only hold those he already has but must draw others to him every day. You can never positively know your friends. "A friend in need is a friend indeed," is an old saying, but old as it is, time has not dulled it. Many a person will pat you on the shoulder, speak honied words to you and smile angelic smiles in your face, and then knife you in the back on the first occasion. My friend is the one to whom I can confide my honorable secrets, my honest convictions and who reasons with me without malice; he rejoices at my success and reaches down a strong arm when my calamities come. My friend will give a mile rather than take an inch; he will not lie in order to make even a million.

Daughter Kills Father

McRoberts Is the Scene of An Unfortunate Tragedy Today

J. H. Pass, aged 52, was shot and instantly killed at McRoberts early today, Thursday, by his daughter, Miss Essil Pass, aged 16. The weapon used was a large calibre pistol and the ball entered the back of the head and came out the forehead. It seems the father had been whipping the girl unmercifully and an examination of her body substantiated this claim. He would tie her up and beat her unto exhaustion at times, and this morning the girl could bear it no longer and in a fit of desperation she grabbed a pistol and fired with the above result.

The girl was brought to Whitesburg for an examining trial while the body of the slain man was prepared for burial.

The young lady is a popular Junior in McRoberts High School and well known to many of our people. The dead man was employed as a miner by The Consolidation Coal Co. at McRoberts and it is said was possessed of a violent temper.

The family came here from Tennessee two years ago. Besides the father and daughter the family consists of a mother and six boys.

MILEAGE

Mileage is the "commodity" one purchases when buying a tire; not mere materials, but the service that certain materials will perform when combined.

Greater mileage is assured in Hydro-Toron tires because processes and principles employed represent the industry's greatest forward steps. The Internal Hydraulic Expansion Process prevents defects from being built into the tire—concealed from sight.

The Toron (no-rot) chemical treatment of fabric gives greater tensile strength, greater holding power between layers, increased affinity for rubber and complete protection against the damaging effects of moisture.

Hydro-Toron tires are oversize—as big as cords, better than cords. Next time you are ready to buy tires, come in and let us show you the tire you have heard so much about.

Pains Were Terrific

Read how Mrs. Albert Gregory, of R. F. D. No. 1, Blufford, Ill., got rid of her ills. "During . . . I was awfully weak . . . My pains were terrific. . . I thought I would die. The bearing-down pains were actually so severe I could not stand the pressure of my hands on the lower part of my stomach. . . I simply felt as if life was for but a short time. My husband was worried. . . One evening, while reading the Birthday Almanac, he came across a case similar to mine, and went straight for some Cardui for me to try.

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"I took it faithfully and the results were immediate," adds Mrs. Gregory. "I continued to get better, all my ills left me, and I went through . . . with no further trouble. My baby was fat and strong, and myself—thank God—am once more hale and hearty, can walk miles, do my work, though 44 years old, feel like a new person. All I owe to Cardui." For many years Cardui has been found helpful in building up the system when run down by disorders peculiar to women.
